Do you see that lady Lady Maria said once more, whispering mysteriously in this instance, and drawing a little nearer to the man--suspicious character though he was, with bated breath and a certain involuntary creeping of the flesh, from coming in contact with the central figure of a distinguished group, whom nevertheless Lady Maria saluted respectfully as she passed by. Yes, said the gentleman, she is a fine woman for her years; though short and stout, she has a good face. You are a stranger here, cried out Lady Maria, as if his remark were conclusive. You have not heard of the Princess Descow--the Russian, the friend of the Empress, and who is so clever and so agreeable, but who, they say, had something to do with the death of the Emperor. Uncle Horace calls her the tigress let...
