The Greenwood Lake Railroad has made its banks easy of access. Its location is charming, and all lovers of wild scenery must delight in the landscapes around it which meet their eyes. The Bearfoot Mountains, the roughest, wildest, and most rocky in the State and the dread of explorers who seek to mount their rugged sides, enter New Jersey from New York at the northern extremity of West Milford and pass southward. They are covered with a thick growth of laurel and other gnarled bushes, of scrub oaks, and some chestnut. They lie on the west side of Greenwood Lake and cover its western banks with a thick shade in the brightest of summer days. Some twelve or more ponds and larger bodies of water RAILROADS AND AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS 231 which may be called lakes are found in the county, mostly in West Milford, the largest of which is Macopin, an exceedingly beautiful body of water covering two hundred and ninety-nine acres, which seems to have hitherto escaped the attention of summer visitors. Greenwood Lake has one thousand nine hundred and twenty acres of land lying beneath its waters. Numerous railroads intersect the county in almost every direction, giving easy access to travellers into other parts of the country. The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western runs from Hoboken northward, enters the county near the City of Passaic, then passes to Paterson, and from thence to Morris County, crossing the Pequannock...
